10 ORDER GRANTING ADMINISTRATIVE MOTION FOR
LEAVE TO FILE SECOND MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

11 Re: Dkt. No. 131

12
13 Before the Court is Defendant Jeffrey F. Rosen motion for leave to file a second motion for 14 summary judgment. Plaintiff Daniel Chung opposes the motion, contending – improperly at this 15 stage – that leave to file a subsequent motion for summary judgment should be denied because the 16 basis for the motion for summary judgment is meritless. The proper inquiry is whether good cause
17 exists to entertain an additional summary judgment motion. See Hoffman v. Tonnemacher, 593
18 F.3d 908, 912 (9th Cir. 2010) (“The district court’s decision to allow Defendant to file another 19 motion for summary judgment . . . required the district court first to modify the pretrial order.”);
20 see also Johnson v. Mammoth Recreations, Inc., 975 F.2d 604, 609 (9th Cir. 1992) (discussing 21 “good cause” standard for party seeking amendment of case schedule). In appropriate cases, 22 permitting second motions is logical and promotes just, speedy, inexpensive resolution of suits.
23 Hoffman, 593 F.3d at 911 (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 1, “allowing a party to file a second motion for 24 summary judgment is logical, and it fosters the ‘just, speedy, and inexpensive’ resolution of 25 suits.”).

26 The Ninth Circuit affirmed in part and reversed in part this Court’s order on Rosen’s first
27 motion for summary judgment, leaving for this Court to examine on remand whether other
28 discipline Chung shouldered violated his First Amendment rights. See ECF 120 at 8. This

1 Court's Standing Order limits each side to one summary judgment motion absent leave of court.
2 Martínez-Olguín Civ. Standing Order § E.1. On remand, Rosen seeks such leave. Allowing
3 Rosen to file a second motion for summary judgment is justified because resolution of the second
4 motion will advance the litigation by testing the legal and factual issues that remain before
5 submitting them to a jury. Addressing the remaining issues at summary judgment would advance
6 litigation to promote "just, speedy, inexpensive resolution," and, contrary to his bare assertion,
7 would not prejudice Chung. Therefore, good cause appearing, the Court GRANTS Rosen's
8 administrative motion for leave to file a second motion for summary judgment.

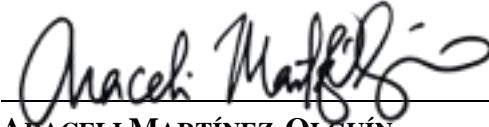

9 The Court will hear the motion on September 4, 2025, at 2:00 p.m. in Courtroom 10, San
10 Francisco. The Court ORDERS the parties to meet and confer and jointly propose a briefing
11 schedule on Rosen's anticipated motion. The parties shall file their proposed briefing schedule no
12 later than noon on May 29, 2025. The parties' proposed briefing schedule must leave at least four 13 weeks between the reply brief and the hearing date.
